

In numbers, half a century of supporting the arts

50+ years

of supporting arts programmes across the UK

50+ million

people reached through long-standing relationships, that today include...

31

years with the Royal Opera House

30

years with the National Portrait Gallery

23

years with the British Museum

8

years with the Royal Shakespeare Company

Bringing art to more people in more places around the country each year...

10,000+

young people

engage with the great bard and the best of modern theatre through £5 tickets for Royal Shakespeare Company productions every year

4.5

million people

experienced the diverse history and cultures of the world at BP-supported British Museum exhibitions

and

135,000

school children

have immersed themselves in culture on school tours

6

million visitors

have come face-to-face with the best in contemporary portrait painting for free by visiting the BP Portrait Award, held at the National Portrait Gallery

while

2,500

young people

developed their creative skills through the free summer workshop and event programme, BP Portrait Award: Next Generation

500,000+

people in 25
UK locations

have seen world-class opera and ballet broadcast live from the Royal Opera House at a BP Big Screen event and an additional

150,000

people in 62
countries

tuned in the live webcast of the Royal Opera House's 2019 performance of Carmen

