Team Building

SECRET instructions for Planning Engineer

You are a spy for another company!

To help your real employer you must try and delay this team and make them finish last.

Only you can ask the Research Officer questions. Think of questions that will make your team build a model that is not correct.

You should attempt to disrupt progress so that your team finishes last. Are there ways you could make other members break their rules, so that the team is given a time penalty?

Remember that you can't touch the Lego pieces yourself.

Don't reveal your secret task!